Inscribed in both the corner stone of the building and the upperclassmen's rings is the motto of Bishop Dwenger High School: "Citizens of Two Worlds." These four words contain the purpose of the school.

Bishop Dwenger High School is based upon the premise that man is a citizen of two worlds, that is, he has both a spiritual and a physical nature. It is the school's aim to nurture these natures and develop fit citizens for both worlds.

Emphasis on scholarly development through rigid academic courses, personality development through social events, and physical development through athletic competition is ever enhanced by spiritual care. Religion does not rule the actions of Bishop Dwenger High School but God underlines them.

Pope Paul VI

In the background of every Catholic High School are silent supporters. At the root of BD's existence and of everything it represents is Pope Paul VI. His ecumenical spirit calls all BDers to become the personification of modern Christianity.

The diocese is especially blessed with Bishop Leo Pursley who gives his untiring efforts to provide Catholic education for every student. Today BD stands as tangible proof of this testimony.

Very Rev. Msgr. William Lester, diocesan superintendent of schools, developed Dwenger from the start. Due to his guidance and foresight, Dwenger possesses the best educational facilities possible.

To them and to all our benefactors, we owe a great debt of gratitude. The support, ideals, and attitudes that they've bestowed have become for us a way of life.

"Nothing Now Is Left but Majestic Memory" (Longfellow) —and Our Gratitude

High school years are traditionally a time of beginnings. For Dwenger students, especially for the members of the class of '67, these 'beginnings' have been doubled. Not only was high school life new for Dwenger students, it was new for Dwenger itself.

Bishop Dwenger High School came to life in September of 1963, when the class of '67 took up its studies in a partially completed building. There from the beginning, to guide students and mold a school, were Principal Father Edward J. Krason and Vice Principal, Dean of Girls, Sister M. Hedwigis P.H.J.C.

With them at the helm, policy was established and gradually tradition was born. Uniforms were chosen and the code of conduct was written. With every new year, a new class, new departments, and new organizations were added to the framework of Dwenger.

All growth involves pain and so, while Dwenger grew, it suffered growing pains. There was doubt, dissatisfaction, and disappointment. Nursing Dwenger as it matured were Father Krason and Sister Redwigis.

Because they have been with Dwenger since its conception, because they have dedicated themselves to it--to us--and because they have served us well, we dedicate this, the first volume of the Aureate, to Fr. Edward Krason and Sr. Hedwigis, Dwenger's first and finest administrators.

The Student Council Executive Board meets with President Mike Shields. It is the Board's duty to coordinate functions, evaluate ideas, and organize activities.

The Student Council— Dwenger's Valiant Effort at Democracy

All organizations of the school exist to serve it. The Student Council offers the prime example of this service: student government. Its purposes are communication, management, expression, organization, and promotion of the general welfare of the entire student body.

The Council consists of elected homeroom representatives, class officers, and selected club representatives. This year the Student Council was led by President Mike Shields, Boys' Vice President Greg Fosnaugh, Girls' Vice President Vicki Besancon, and Treasurer Wade Adams. Coordinating activities was Parliamentarian James Rissing. Committee chairmen also offered valuable service.

Getting people involved is the hardest task of any democratic organization. The Student Council has come to realize this fact and has attacked apathy in Dwenger. Student Council Week (April 10-14) was a valiant effort at involvement.

All efforts don't meet with success. The Student Council has encountered many setbacks in its four year history yet it continues to strive to represent the ideas and ideals of the entire student body before the administration.

Vital Tasks Are Performed Effectively

Important to any efficiently managed institution are its business staff and the maintenance crew. Without their proper functioning, essential tasks could not be transacted.

Often unnoticed but definitely deserving recognition are the offices of treasurer, secretary, cafeteria manager, and maintenance engineer. Staff members do jobs vital to BD, for it is through them that many outsiders have their first and only contact with Dwenger.

Whether serving outsiders, faculty, or students, these staff members make Dwenger an efficiently managed place to obtain an education.

Father Donald Muldoon, a behind-the-scenes artist, manages all of BD's business transactions.

Mr. Gene Karst, Dwenger's maintenance engineer, offers indispensable service with a smile.

Efficient Staffs Provide Services

Many cooks do not spoil the broth in BD's cafeteria. Kitchen staff includes Phyllis Walker, Crescentia Bonifas, Sharon Strack, and Annabel Gee, cafeteria manager.

Mrs. Margaret Halfmann attends to tasks of housekeeping for Dwenger's resident priests.

THE WORLD OF SENIORS

President

The seniors are the standard bearers upon whom rest the hopes and dreams of Bishop Dwenger High. It is to them--the first graduating class--that all classes gaze: the freshmen with awe, the sophomores with envy, and the juniors with anxiety. After four years of labor, lament, and longing, the goal is attained and each one wonders "Where did it all go, all the fun, the laughter, and the hard work? Where have the years flown?"

Participation and success are words with which the Senior Class is most familiar. Only through hard work and long hours has success been possible. The seniors who comprise the Class of '67 have certainly left a high standard for other classes to strive to attain.

Now, with a new chapter open before them, the seniors must write the story of their own generation. They cannot hope to keep its pages completely spotless, but they can firmly resolve to attempt to mold a better world. Later, when the dusty pages are reviewed in time, they will know that they can read the record with pride.

THE WORLD OF ACADEMICS

Fr. Pfister in a social problems class, presents a panel discussion on the war in Vietnam.

Religion Classes Form Foundation for Moral Living

Religion is the center of the world of Bishop Dwenger. The basic idea of the religion program is to make the students better "Citizens of Two Worlds." It is to form in them the foundation for moral living, which they will carry with them when they leave Bishop Dwenger High School.

The first and second year religion texts deal with scriptural study and the study of God as the Lord of History.

In the third year, students learn basic knowledge of Vatican II, and its application to daily life.

The fourth year deals with a semester course in marriage, and one in social problems. This is to help prepare the Seniors for their future lives. The students are also encouraged to further their spiritual life through daily Mass in the Chapel, confessions, the annual retreat, and the monthly First Friday Mass.

Below: Gretchen Hoetzer displays interest as Diane Fortress points out special aspects of religion posters.

1. The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass is the center of all student activities.
2. Girls' retreat centers around chapel.
3. Retreatmaster, Father Arnold, with his assistant Father Simon, proved that retreat time can be a dynamic and powerful influence in student life.
4. Chuck Ostman, with the assistance of Mary Witte, crowns the Blessed Virgin at the annual May Crowning event.

Student Life Revolves Around

Spiritual Events

1. Chief Sacristan, Sister Carmen, daily prepares the chapel for the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass.
2. The panel on sex education, consisting of Lynne Rodgers, Jody Sollohub, Denny Kitt and Tom Lombardi, present talks and a skit to the neighboring Catholic grade schools.
3. This year's retreat, attended for the most part by the undergraduates, proved the most successful in Dwenger's history.
4. A faithful Sodalist, Tom Lombardi, served daily Mass during the year.

English Classes Promote Interest Instill Thought

Mary Sue Ueber explains a correct layout form as Kerlene Kinzler, Sister Alberta and John Leahy pose to represent the Journalism Club.

Sister Chantal's speech class appears fascinated as they listen to Jody Sollohub deliver a humorous speech on a personal experience.

"Life's but a walking shadow, a poor player that struts and frets his hour upon the stage and then is heard no more." Seniors Denny Wright, Kent Delucenay and Peter Fullam "hearken" to Tim Zimmerman's dramatic monologue from MACBETH.

The English department includes classes in grammar, developmental reading, English and American literature, as well as the art of journalistic writing. Headed by Father Chrobot and Sister Angelene, this department is one of the largest and most complex at Bishop Dwenger High School. With the beneficial aid of filmstrips, records, classical and modern films, literary works and textbooks, teachers of English prepare B.D. students for wonderful world of tomorrow as they inculcate the basic skills of the English language.

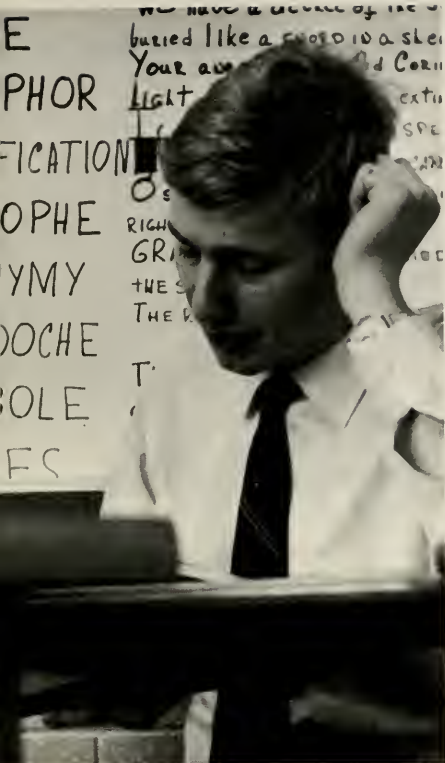

Sister Myra aids Kathy Smith and Margaret Skevington while the remainder of the journalism class studies exchange papers.

Below: Developmental reading promotes skills in accuracy and speed. Mrs. Raison's class appears engrossed in their reading.

Below: Mary Ellen Dietsch guides Mary Dumask who endeavors to scan a line of poetry.

Language requires concentration and effort. Mel Herber proves this as he sweats over a Latin translation.

French 1 class. "What's the answer, Wade?"

Practice is the key word in learning a foreign language. Katie Shirmeyer, Pat McDonald, and Cathy Schmitt converse in Spanish.

French can be exciting and stimulating. Debbie Hartman, Lynn Rea, and Carol Schoenhur appear interested.

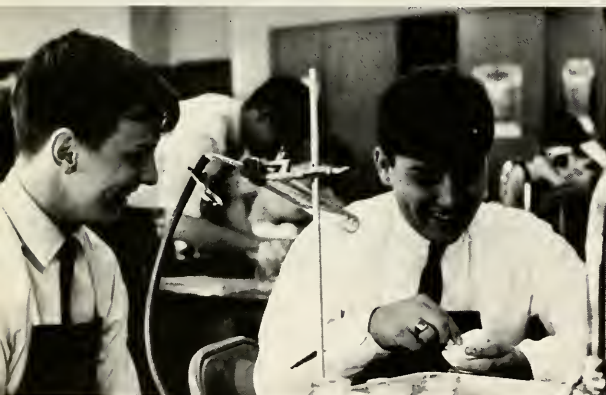

Below: Claudia Carol, Mike Ley, Kayht Smith, and Stan Hilker entertain the Spanish class. "Is it really that bad, Dick?"

Science Courses Promote Exploration of the Physical World

The Science Department offers three courses to Dwenger students: Biology, Chemistry, and Physics. These courses teach basic preparation for future education in more advanced studies.

Biology teachers include Sr. Eleanora, Mrs. J. Gloman, and Mr. G. Wanning. Chemistry is taught by Sr. Hedwigis, and Physics is taught by Sr. Maris. This department also includes the Science Club, which promotes scientific ability through science fairs and weekly meetings.

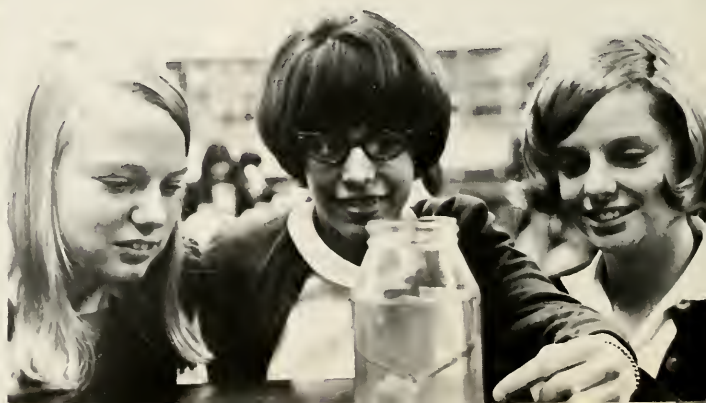

Wade Adams crushes a substance in mortar, as Mark Aberle waits patiently to continue the experiment.

Sr. Hedwigis instructs Dave Chandler and Larry Hedeem in proper methods of experimentation.

Sophomores Sandy Wehrly, Kay Stanley, and Laura Kramer study interesting Biology specimens.

The Math 4 class appears completely engrossed as Ray Fortman explains a complicated problem.

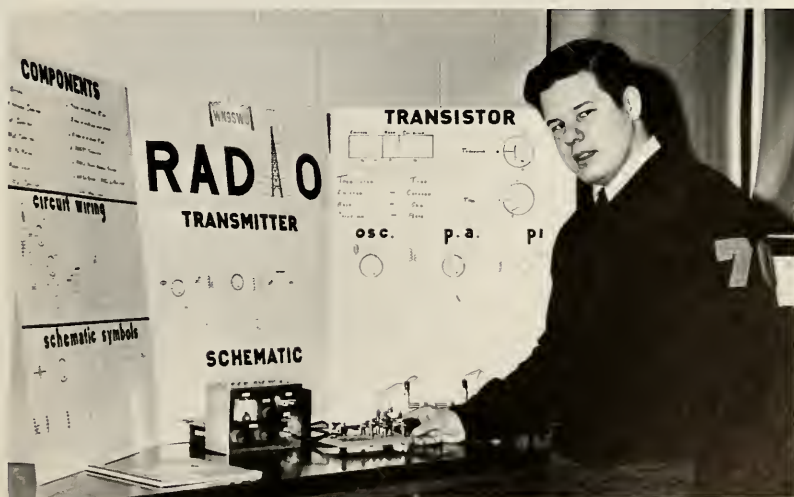

Kathy Mettler, and Sr. Maris watch as Mary Beth Bobliya conducts a Physics experiment displaying how velocity relates to force.

Greg Barwick pensively gazes at Jim Lassen who conducts a Mellikan experiment which measures the charge of the electron.

Geometry, an essential part of the sophomore curriculum, creates a "problem" for Mark Jehl and Pat Giles.

Right: The overhead projector, demonstrated here by Sister Maurice and Sheron Campbell, has proved to be a big aid in the math department.

Ellen Federspiel checks a problem which she will explain to the advanced algebra and trigonometry class.

Mathematics Matures. Tests Abstract Thinking.

The mathematics department offers subjects which touch all levels of classes at Dwenger. Algebra is absorbed by the freshmen who study it to understand the basic fundamentals in equations before they venture into higher math studies. The sophomores are kept equally busy with the essentials and designs of geometry, while the upper classmen struggle with such courses as advanced algebra, trigonometry, calculus and analytical geometry. These more advanced students are intrigued with the fascinating study of number and hope to become great mathematicians some day!

Teachers in this department include Sister Maris, Sister Maurice, Mrs. Hobson, Mr. Ibrahim and Mr. Thompson.

Mechanical drawing, taught by Coach George Waning, provides students with the basic concepts of planning for industry . . . from simple screws to pipe and die plans.

Right: Mechanical drawing is another area of mathematics. Mr. Waning directs John Garvin, Doug Fyock, Larry Hedeem and Denny Hipskind in their work.

Mr. Bartolameolli indicates a strategic point on the globe to members of his world history class.

Knowledge and Interest Develop Through Social Studies

Current events, the Civil War, the United States Constitution and term papers all play an important part in the social studies department of Bishop Dwenger High School. This area of study, co-headed by Sister Maurice and Mr. Krouse, includes history, geography, government and economics. Its purpose is to provide students with a solid background of world affairs and to instill a sense of patriotism and loyalty to their own country and to inculcate a feeling of respect and dignity for other nations in the world.

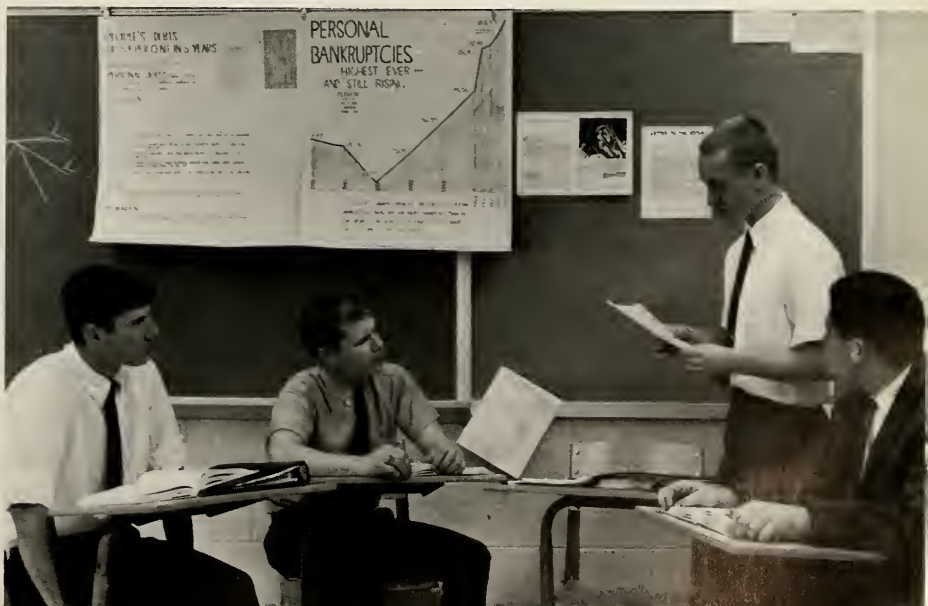

The entire geography class for the 1966-67 school year strikes an unusual pose for the camera. Having fun, Claudia?

Donna Schaefer and Connie Prell demonstrate the fact that maps play an important part in American History.

Right: Mr. Ray passes out political pamphlets to interested government students Sandy Harmeyer and Lynn Bleke.

Below: Economics can be fun! John Leahy, Steve Schnelker, Rick SanPietro and Ray McKenna display their knowledge through a panel.

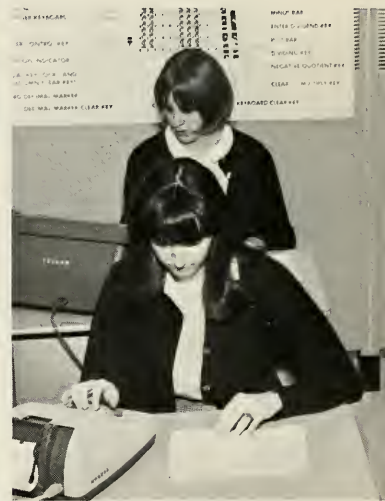

Business Courses Are an Asset

Bill Wilkinson proves that boys can become adept at typing.

Below: Theresa Sutter, Mary Lou Sullivan, Anna Linsky and Barb Reed demonstrate office practice skills.

to School Curriculum

Shorthand students take a test with Sister Michaela dictating brief forms. Remainder of the class transcribes from notes.

The business curriculum consists of bookkeeping, typing, shorthand and office practice. These courses prepare students for both secretarial and office work in general, since they encourage accuracy and speed to those with these abilities. Talks and films are presented at various times to familiarize students with occurrences they will likely encounter in given business situations. Members of these classes are able to receive job opportunities as well as college acceptance. Teachers in the department are Sister Carmen, Sister Michaela and Mr. Krouse.

There is nothing like a bookkeeping course to help a person remain within his budget. Nannette Jones and Linda Hullinger concentrate on a test as Mr. Krouse watches Tim Martin at work.

Library Club Lends Valuable Assistance

Bishop Dwenger Library is the hub of academic activity. Sister M. Jeanne, the chief librarian, is assisted by Miss Alina Sachnowska. Both have been with the school from its infant "daze!"

Library assistants are students who devote much time and energy to the maintenance of books, periodicals and other materials, including the use and handling of research materials and audio-visual equipment. These volunteer students check out books, file periodicals and aid fellow students to locate books. Besides these tasks, they also aid in the necessary clean-up tasks which are always a part of a well-frequented area.

1. Library assistants Darlene Gladieux and Marcus Steffans work at a filing task.
2. Miss Alina is surrounded by the "objects" of her trade.
3. Sister Jeanne aids Mary Witte in a research question while Debbie Wagner looks on.
4. Marianne Anderson, Terry Coleman, Stan Mahrt and Debbie Lucker are really "wrapped up" in their work!

Physical Fitness Aids Mental Growth!

A perfect fore-hand drive is executed by Jean Vodde.

Sue Henry and Molly Meyer demonstrate techniques in archery and golf--two sports which are offered in the physical education course at B.D.H.S.

Below: Girls' gym class. One, two, three, four! a twist! Boys' gym class. Bill Philips grapples with Rick Petersen.

The physical education program, under the guidance of Mrs. Kathleen Meyers and Coach Bernard Haag, provides physical fitness for students at Bishop Dwenger. Regular exercises and drills, track, basketball, volleyball, softball, archery, tennis, bowling and tumbling, as well as instructions in health, are a part of this important, ever-growing area in the field of education in the state of Indiana.

A toast to fun and good food! Sue Savio, Candy Shinn, and Becky Schele prove this.

Future Homemakers Display Basic Skills

BELOW: Joan Deininger, Cindy Huffman, Sharon Smith, Connie Lampke, and Carlene McBride strike professional poses as they model their own creations.

Watch that calorie count rise as homemakers become more proficient at making malts! Cindy Biedrzycki and Becky Schele assist Sr. Eleanora with the "Osterizer"

Below: Joan Deininger, Cindy Huffman, Sharon Smith, Connie Lampke, and Carlene McBride strike professional poses as they model their own creations.

The home economics course provides a variety of subjects, ranging from Foods and Clothing to Home management and Home Nursing, under the skillful direction of Sister Eleanora. Students taking this course are instructed in the basic skills which they will use now and in the future as homemakers of tomorrow. At the end of the year the most outstanding student receives the honor of the Crisco Award.

The Hand of Beauty Touches Dwenger's Art Department

Carol McDonald displays her artistic talent in a piece of greenware ready to be fired in the kiln.

Below: Art students, Anne Martin and Linda Chandler donate their time and ability to design scenery for "Oklahoma."

The purpose of the Art Department is to foster a sense of beauty and creativity in its students. With the guidance of Sister Angelene's helping hand, Dwenger's budding artists instill feeling and talent into their projects. The art club, also under the auspices of Sr. Angelene, continues to foster an appreciation of art.

The 'Big Band Sound' at Dwenger

Dwenger boasts a band worthy of pride, complete with blaring brass, thumping percussion, and soothing woodwinds.

Under the direction of Mr. Richard Brown with the assistance of Dwenger's Drum Major, Greg Fosnaugh, members practice daily--mastering marching drills as well as building a repertoire.

The "Marching Saints" regularly add color and spirit to home games. Their half-time shows, performed with Dwenger's twirlers, provides pep, enthusiasm, and entertainment for the fans of both teams.

Full Orchestra: FIRST ROW: Karlene Kinsler, Carol Graney, Steve France, Cathy Petersen, Cheryl Simonis, Carolyn Till, Jean Rosencrans, Debbie Sollohub. The World of Music Comes Alive with Dwenger's Orchestra

After four long years of struggle and growth, Dwenger boasts a matured orchestra. A far cry from the first meager ensemble of five freshman members, string membership currently numbers eighteen. This includes ten violins, a viola, four cellos, two string basses and a harp.

The gilt harp, one of two in city high schools, is an especially prized orchestral possession. Because of the lack of harp teachers in the Fort Wayne area, Dwenger's harpist, Cheryl Smith, commutes all the way to Muncie, Indiana, for instructions.

One of the developing traditions for the strings is the annual jaunt to Manchester College for the Northeastern Indiana String Festival each spring.

On occasion, the string orchestra combines forces with selected members of the band, forming the full orchestra. Unbiased judges have consistently awarded this orchestra and "Excellent" rating in the N.I.S.B.O.V.A. contests.

Tradition thrives here, too. Each year the full orchestra travels to serenade the sisters and students at Convent Ancilla Domini, the Motherhouse of the Poor Handmaids of Jesus Christ, at Donaldson, Indiana. The annual spring musical-comedy also finds the orchestra at work, as they accompany the actors.

Over the years, the orchestra's musical repertoire has grown with its ability. With throbbing vibrato and fiery tremolo, Dwenger's musicians play their way from the baroque passages of Bach to the catchy, well-known melodies of Rodgers and Hammerstein.

Cheryl Smith, Dwenger's first and only harpist, demonstrates her skill.

A Source of Truth

Thornton Wilder's

Hard rehearsal makes for a good performance as demonstrated above by Mary Evans, portraying Emily Webb, and Dennis Kitt, portraying George Gibbs.

Grover's Corners, New Hampshire, is an ordinary town and the people of Grover's Corners are ordinary people. But Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" is not an ordinary play. It is, rather, a mirror of reality and an instrument of awakening. For the seniors who presented it, it was an experience. Forced to stop and examine the everyday, they discovered the beauty of the commonplace.

Rodgers and Hammerstein's Oklahoma!

The New York Tribune would have called it "remarkable!" All who saw Dwenger's performance of Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Oklahoma!" recognized it as quite an accomplishment.

"Oklahoma!" was third annual spring musical. The humorous story of obstinate lovers and the early days of our forty-sixth state, the play displayed the talents of more than sixty Dwenger students, including not only the actors but also a full chorus and orchestra.

While the entire cast was outstanding, special recognition is due to Freshman Julie Suelzer for her performance as Laurey and Senior Ronnie Walz for his portrayal of Curley.

Left: Curley (Senior Ronnie Walz) admonishes Laurey (Freshman Julie Suelzer) with "People Will Say We're in Love."

Drama Club— Workshop for Future Stars

The Drama Club, formally entitled The St. Genesian Players, forms an integral part of Dwenger's extracurriculum. Its purpose is to acquaint its members with the world of drama, not merely to produce actors. Through the Genesians, scenery and stage props are constructed, grease paint is applied, actors are prompted and productions are publicized.

The St. Genesian Players are moderated by Mr. Michael Thompson and Sr. Chantal, and led by President Jeff Gibson, Vice President Thomas Lombardi, Secretary Lynne Rodgers, and Treasurer Susie Dillon.

Those backstage wonder-workers, the members of the make-up crew, are shown at work.

THE WORLD OF SPORTS

Below: Victory! Upset over North Side.

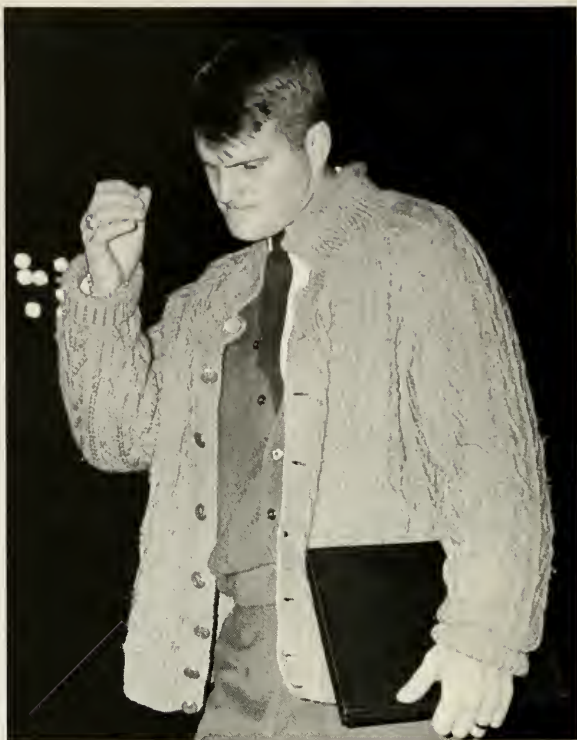

Thoughtful, Exhausted, Exhilarated

Three years ago interscholastic football competition was initiated within Dwenger's first group of freshmen and sophomore boys. After three years of growth, Dwenger stands as a tough competitor among rival schools.

After two varsity seasons the squad has learned that a Saint doesn't "play at" football but he lets football become a part of him. The Saints have football in their hearts. They have the "burning desire" of which Coach has so often spoken through his faith, devotion, and painstaking efforts. Dwenger anticipates a bright future on the gridiron.

Bucky's staff boasts top-notch coaches: Coach Bart, Coach Titzer, Coach Hall, and Coach Quilhot. They teach hustle, spirit, and undying enthusiasm to a fighting team. These Saints will never put up the "White Flag".

Many coaches commented that Dwenger had one of the hardest hitting teams in the city. "The boys had learned to 'em and through 'em." Looking back at the '66-'67 season, Dwenger fans can place their hopes high for the coming year.

Freshmen: A Victorious Season A Promising Future

Freshmen initiated their high school career with enthusiasm. Under the spirited guidance of Coach Krouse the 1967 frosh squad boasts of victory. The 4-1-1 grid-slate stands in testimony to their ability.

The mighty team proved to be touch competitors. The squad was right in the thick of city competition when a spunky Luers' team upset them. Still determined they struck a mighty comeback to beat Decatur 39-0.

Coach strove to form an organized, functioning unit. He and his boys pulled together, and no matter what the outcome, there was always a lesson taught and a lesson learned.

New Talent Replaces Senior Graduates

The strength of any great team depends largely on its feeder system. Dwenger Varsity basketball relies on its Junior Varsity and freshmen cageball teams to replace graduating seniors. Coach Krouse, Freshmen coach and Coach Hall, J.V. coach, did a great job training their boys, not only for the following seasons but in their own seasons as well. Coach Krouse, Dwenger's "winningest" coach, sported a 14-2 record and Coach Hall posted 12 wins and 7 losses. Recognizing the services of these two men and the ability of the Varsity coaches, Dwenger looks forward to still greater seasons.

Varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders succeeded in drawing our students together in a special bond of Dwenger spirit. Lettermen admit this spirit enters every players heart when the fans and cheerleaders yell their support.

From the Saints' teamwork comes inspiring performances, with happy endings and sad ones.

Although some said Dwenger play on the hardwood appeared ragged at times, the Saints pushed until the final buzzer sounded. Coach instilled the boys with drive--drive that meant more than good statistics. Dwenger men learn from our athletic department that it's more important to try with all your might than to win. The athletics play, the spectators watch, and, even in defeat, they find victory. "Win or lose it's how they play the game."

The cross country team produced its first varsity victories for Dwenger. Assisted by Coach Ray, Coach Waning ran the boys through rigorous training to build the needed stamina and strength. Although the Saints recorded only four wins, a strong competitive spirit among individuals pervaded throughout the dismal season.

Gaining less fans than the major sports, the thinlies forced objects to become their sole incentive and support. The next hill, the next runner, the tape at the end--these silent symbols urged Dwenger's runners to put out their all. Although our cross country team didn't register the best city record, each player knows he's that much more a man for having tried.

Bayman Qualifies for State

With the passing of the basketball season, most students feel the spectator sports at Dwenger have ended. Yet each spring dedicated young men don spikes and sweats to provide the thrills, color, and excitement of track. The team guided by Head Coach Haag and Assistant Coach Ray, have proven Dwenger's track potency in the city.

B.D. Invades the Links

Like the other Dwenger sports, the Saints' first golf team had their ups and downs, but mostly downs. Plagued by a largely away-game schedule and an inexperienced team, Coach Jack Berg's golf team managed a three-twelve one-loss record.

A great blow was the loss of the valuable player, John Leahy, due to ineligibility. Although the past history of the links was dismal, the future looks bright. Finishing the season with an eleventh place finish in a twenty-three team Sectional, next year's golf team will be young and inexperienced.

THE WORLD OF CLUBS

Publication Staffs Give Dwenger Voice

Co-editors-in-chief of last year's memory book, Pam Ummel and Jody Sollohub proudly assumed the same role on Dwenger's first yearbook. Moderator Sr. Angelene talks with them about the AUREATE's progress.

The AUREATE staff labors to meet the next deadline.

The creation of a yearbook is not an easy task. It takes a lot of time, a lot of energy, and a lot of skill. During the past year, the two of us have devoted our time, our energy, and whatever skill we might have to the creation of this book.

Approximately twenty other students helped to make this first yearbook, and they deserve recognition. Especially outstanding were Rita Bosler and Susie Dillon, who contended with the senior section and the directory. Sue Cabler and Ellen Federspiel fashioned the junior section as Debi Sollohub, Terry Jones, and Margaret Stack worked on the sophomore class.

Jackie Hargis was in charge of the sports section of which we are exceptionally proud. Darlene Gladieux and Barb Fox were an indispensable pair. They put together the entire academic section and helped with innumerable 'odd jobs.'

A book cannot be published without money and we count ourselves lucky to have had Mark Schirmeyer as our business manager. Through his efforts and those of his staff, this entire book was financed.

Any yearbook is only as good as its pictures. We have Jeffery Gibson to thank for taking ours and for long hours spent developing them. Bruce Woodings of the Regional Campus has also earned our gratitude. We have him to thank for special effects.

Sr. Angelene, yearbook staff moderator, also devoted many long hours to checking our work and getting it to the printer. We couldn't have made it without her.

We worked hard to create a book that would mirror a year. We are grateful to have had the opportunity and we hope we have succeeded in some small way.

Religious Organizations Promote Action

CDL President Lynne Rodgers reviews plans for an effective functioning body. Father John Pfister, moderator, gives his approval.

Theresian members Lynne Windmiller, Pat McKenna, Janet Houlihan, and Lynne Coman prepare hamburgers for a Theresian picnic with BD's Sisters.

Students excelling in scholarship, character, service and leadership comprise a select corps known as the National Honor Society. President Jim Forbing presides over a monthly meeting.

Service—Motto of Society and Key Club

The Key Club provides service to school and community while developing initiative and leadership among its members. Seated are the '67 officers; Vice President, Greg Barwick; President Terry Feichter; Secretary Gene Raymond, and Treasurer Ed Parrot. Standing are new officers: Gene Raymond, President; John Wernet, Vice President; Dick Sparks, Secretary and Clem Dreyfus, Treasurer.

Red Cross officers Stevie Ringswald, Vice President; Jim Krouse, Treasurer, Rick Fortman, rep.; Margaret Ankenbruck, City Council President and Diane Schaab, President, complete one of their many volunteer projects--a school chest for a disaster area. Other services include friendship kits and trays for local hospitals.

Red Cross and Safety Council Promote General Welfare

Safety Council officers work to promote a mental attitude of safety consciousness among all young drivers of Allen County. Pictures left to right are: Steve Fisher, Tom Huth, Dennis Carteaux and Jerry Bobay, President.

GAA officers Secretary Angie Smith, Moderator Mrs. Meyers, President Sandy Martin, and Treasurer Darlene Gladieux admire Sandy's plaque awarded for participation and cooperation. Members enjoy soccer, basketball, volleyball, softball, archery, bowling, golf and tennis.

GAA and FTA Members Learn Through Participation

Future Teachers of America engage in studying the teaching profession through various introductory projects. Left to right: Angelika Reitzug, secretary; Susie Dillon, treasurer; Debbie Wagner, vice-president; Sister Cabrini, moderator; and Donna Schaefer, president.

Tom Lombardi in a typically masterful position poses as a Roman God, Jupiter, at the annual Latin banquet.

Languages Promote Deeper Appreciation of Foreign Cultures

French teachers, Sister Myra and Miss Purvis will travel abroad to France to gain a deeper knowledge and appreciation of the French Culture. Students Mary McKenzie, Yevonne Pettit and Mary Beth Minick will journey to France and Spain to become acquainted with the country's vocal pronunciation.

ARE YOU THE TYPE?

Is appearance for you more than just a snap decision each morning? Perhaps the traditional suit is for you. Our version, flawlessly tailored by Bennett of New Haven, is correct in every detail. It might well change your mind about what's right for you in clothing, besides giving you the most comfort you've ever worn. In select fabrics.
